

December 6, 2005

Definitely not the last 'thing' on your list

If you want to choose a great Christmas gift, look for something with longevity.

Ask yourself: Is this something my children will play with over and over again? If you want your kids to have fun all year long, not just over the holidays, then check out THINGS humour in a box, the funniest game they'll ever play.

THINGS is a great family and party game too - anyone who can read can play. Canadian game and puzzle company Outset Media is the distributor of this sidesplitting game.

THINGS comes in a plain wooden box, but it's anything but square and dull." In fact, the fun is limited only by the players' imaginations," says Outset Media president, David Manga.

THINGS throws aside all the usual game skills, like answering trivia and drawing pictures. To play it you need a knack for only two things - using your imagination and guessing who said what.

"You don't need to know a lot of facts or have special art skills.

"All you need is your memory and all the playfulness you can muster," adds Manga.

Players write down responses to phrases like "THINGS kids know more about than adults," and "THINGS you wouldn't want to find in your Christmas stocking."

All answers are anonymous and read aloud. THINGS offers a high level of player involvement, as everyone participates in each turn by guessing who said what.

Use your creativity to stay in the game!

If someone matches you with your response, you're knocked out of that round. The last player left, wins!

THINGS will be played over and over again, making it a great investment in your family. The Canadian Toy Testing Council (CTTC) has just awarded THINGS a Children's Choice Award, given to the top ten toys of the year.

According to the CTTC, this rating "demonstrates excellence in all areas of function, design, durability and most importantly - play value."

THINGS is invented in Canada.

Outset Media designs, distributes and manufactures quality board games, card games and puzzles. To find out more about THINGS visit www.outsetmedia.com or call 1-877-592-7374.

